Monthly Commentary

The Alpha High Growth Fund delivered a total return of 1.11% (net of fees) in September 2024, which was below the Morningstar Australian Aggressive Target Allocation Index by -0.58% and the Peer Median by -0.65%. The main reason for the relative underperformance was asset allocation decisions which favoured Global Shares over Australian Shares and Listed Property.

Share markets continued to grind higher in September and the key market indices have now reached record highs. Chinese Shares and Australian Resources were a major talking point and bounced strongly from mid-month after China announced a much larger stimulus to address its local housing crisis. Fixed income also fared well, and bonds were supported by the US Federal Reserve's interest rate cuts. With the RBA now falling behind the other major central banks in terms of rate cuts, Australian bonds lagged global counterparts and the Australian Dollar rallied. Value style companies outperformed and listed property/infrastructure were buoyed by the prospect of lower interest rates, while some of the hype around the Al and weight loss thematics waned.

The Fund's biggest winners in September were Australian miners (inc. BHP, South32, Rio Tinto & West African Resources) and Chinese companies (inc. Alibaba, Tencent, JD.com, Geely Automotive, Yum China & HKEX). The biggest detractors were the major weight loss drug makers (Novo Nordisk & Eli Lilly), while other key losers included ASML, JPMorgan, AstraZeneca and REA Group (which launched a so far unsuccessful bid for UK's Rightmove).

The Fund is still marginally overweight to Growth Assets and we have moved to be even more overweight to bonds. While, we still favour higher quality companies, the Fund's exposures to Asia and Australian Resources are designed to take advantage of an expected recovery in China. The key changes to the portfolio in September were:

- Rotation in the banks, trimming CBA and adding to or buying NAB, Westpac and ANZ based on relative valuation.
- Buying South32 and West African Resources and adding to BHP, which are cheap and should if China starts to recover.
- Buying a basket of undervalued Global Listed Infrastructure exposures, including positions in Hong Kong, Mexico and US.
- Adding to NVIDIA, which is the epicentre of the AI story and has the potential continue to reap supernormal profits over the next few years.
- Adding to Chinese Technology, which has a strong fundamental outlook, and still looks undervalued compared to global peers.
